Main Character's Profile:

Male medical mannequin, average to large in size, native to North Carolina, migrates weekly for business, usually spotted with a dark blue color pattern during basketball season.

Stanley Sim was born in 1961 in eastern rural North Carolina in a little town called Mythfield. That makes Stanley 48 years old. He is a single, white, male who works as a businessman in the pork industry. He's a tad overweight, with a slight receding hairline. His great loves are bacon, pulled pork sandwiches, and Duke basketball. Stanley attributes his lack of love life to his busy travel schedule and the fact that after years of being a bachelor, he's pretty set in his ways. He's always been fastidious about hygiene and manners. His mother taught him how to use napkins and clean under his fingernails...and he doesn't have a lot of respect for people who aren't tidy or those who don't have a strong work ethic.
